Axioms of Leadership

Information will assist you in Work and Home Life : 4.83 out of 5 Starts Average

Comments:

1. I think this class should be one of the blocks in the foundation of everyone, in our profession, that finds themselves in a leadership position. I'm proud to have attended and hope I am able to give back in the future!
2. Never let this class die, needs more a year if possible. With my wife being military I only get to see her half of the year then a 1/3 of that time I'm at work, and 1/3 of the time I'm not working she's working. This class made me realize so much more. Made me realize the bigger picture in life. It pulled me out of a dark place, and she's currently deployed. I can't thank this class enough for not just teaching me leadership, but saving me

3. Please offer it as often as possible. I have never attended a GEMSA class that has disappointed me!

Trauma Skills Lab

This Course should be Mandatory for all Pre-Hospital & Hospital Personnel: 4.95 out of 5 Stars

Comments:

1. This was extremely helpful and beneficial to my learning. One of my best experiences in school so far!
2. Great class and very helpful in practicing important skills that are not regularly practiced in the field
3. This class is an amazing opportunity and gives hands on experience in a safe and controlled setting that you can literally not get elsewhere. I am recommending every one I know to take this class

Farm Medic

Gained knowledge in this class will help you during patient care and extrication 4.77 out of 5 Stars

1. Keep it going - This was an Awesome Class

Introduction to Leadership

1. We need more course like this. The typical leadership course is geared towards department directors and long term leaders... but there are people taking new entry level leadership positions every day, such as: FTO's, Training Captains/Lieutenants, Shift Captains/Lieutenants, Operations Managers, and Supply / Logistics Officers. These type of rolls that are completely new to those taking them, and everyone could benefit from these type of entry level leadership courses. They should be offered more often and geared to those demographics of personnel. Thank you for this course!
2. THANK YOU!!! With your support, I have learned different ways to engage and support my crew members in addition to making a positive impact on the next generation of EMS
